Be Wise and Happy.

If you will stop all your extravagant and wrong notions in doctoring yourself and families with expensive doctors or humbug cure-all, that do harm always, and use only nature's simple remedies for all your ailments—you will be wise, well and happy, and save great expense. The greatest remedy for this, the great, wise and good will tell you, is Hop Bitters—rely on it.—[Press.] al-15

COMPLAINTS AND COMPLAINTS.

That Are Made By People On Many Subjects.

THE BEE is continually receiving complaints about this thing and that from citizens who imagine everything is going wrong. This paper does not believe in chronic growling and were it to make public all the complaints received, a special edition would be required on some days. One gentleman writes and asks "why it is that the platforms over the gutters on the corners of our principal streets are not kept in repair. Is it the fault of the Street Commissioner, the City Council or the property owners? Whose ever fault it is, it is an evil which should be remedied at once." The communication goes on to further state that the cost would be trifling and the convenience great and instances several places where they are required. This is a matter which private citizens have nothing to do with. Even if these platforms were placed in position a heavy rain would sweep them away in many places, because the surface drainage is not sufficient. Another gentleman wants to know why the firemen are not compelled to sprinkle the streets. The principal reason probably is because it is not their business to do so. Even if they were called upon to sprinkle the streets they have no facilities. If a big fire would start, as it is liable to do at any time, and find the firemen with their apparatus scattered throughout the city, a serious conflagration might be the result. In most places street sprinkling is looked upon as a private enterprise of those occupying property abutting the street. It is a good rule to load a gun before you fire it off if you expect to do any execution.

Prostrated by Heat. Yesterday afternoon, between 3 and 4 o'clock, Isaac Duncan, a foreman employed by the waterworks company, was prostrated by excessive heat. Dr. W. S. Gibbs was immediately sent for and found Duncan in a very poor condition, his pulse being much below the normal. Dr. Gibbs thinks, however, he is now on the way to recovery, but it will probably be some time before he will be able to resume work.

MINOR OFFENDERS.

Such as Judge Bencke Dealt With Yesterday.

Dan Smith walked up to the bar of justice in Judge Bencke's court yesterday to answer the charge of carrying concealed weapons. Daniel couldn't deny the charge so he pleaded guilty. The judge always makes an example in these cases, believing that no man need carry a weapon in this law abiding community. He fined Smith $50 and costs. When Michael Sullivan appeared before Judge Bencke on a charge of drunkenness he told one of the most sorrowful tales the court has listened to for a long time. He said he had a large family dependent upon him out in the country, that he was as poor as a church mouse, and that three of his children were sick, while his wife was by no means well. He testified further that he had a game leg, which he produced in evidence to verify his statement. This combination of evils being taken into consideration Judge Bencke released the man with a little sound advice. This was at 10 o'clock yesterday. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon he was picked up again by the police in an elaborate state of intoxication. When he was taken before the court this morning Judge Bencke refused to listen to any more yarns and fined him $20 and costs. Of two others arrested for the same offense, one was sent jail and the other discharged upon payment of his fine.

The Lincoln Depot.

It is officially announced that the B. & M. company will on Monday next occupy their new depot at Lincoln. This depot has been in course of erection for the past two years, and upon completion, stands as a model of art and of the latest design of architectural beauty. The finish and arrangement for the comfort of the traveling public has been the first object in view, and that they will be fully appreciated, is quite assured. No passenger depot west of Chicago can boast of the same provisions for the comfort of passengers. The immense passenger traffic of the B. & M. company from Lincoln necessitated the erection of this modern passenger depot, and it reflects great credit upon the taste and judgment of the general managers.

A Wild Rumor.

Much excitement was created in portions of North Omaha in the past two days by the rumor that a little boy had been so badly beaten by a neighbor that he subsequently died. The rumor further said that the body of the boy could not be found and there were dark hints that the remains had been hidden away out of sight. As the name of the little fellow was given, the rumor was generally received as having foundation, in fact. Investigation of the matter this morning, disclosed that the youth was
